You can also use rifles and other types of hunting guns during the night with near-perfect accuracy as if you were hunting during the day. Everything you need is a right type of night vision riflescope. We now carry on 2.5x50 and 4x60.

Importance in choosing the night vision riflescope is the presence of features that will make it more convenient to use it. Look at the optical system accuracy, which can come in red on green reticle. Look for push-button operation to improve usability. Look for removable infrared illuminator. Look for water resistance feature.

The best night vision riflescopes are the ones that can function in the most effective and efficient manner while on the field. It will be your personal choice so choose a worthwhile type to protect your investment.

USD 12,000 Red Dot Scope?!

There is the case with our veteran shown here. An ordinary Maverick 1x22 red dot scope still works so well after...40,000 round for 4 years.

Considering the price of 7.62x39mm ammo, we figure out the price is about $12,000.

The kind of use is the best testimonial and proof that we, Vector Optics, do our product in the right way without compromise.

Fortunately, your vector optics scope won't cost so much high. If you wish to shoot that much ammo, at least you will think about our Vector Optics products.
